Hazardous Weather

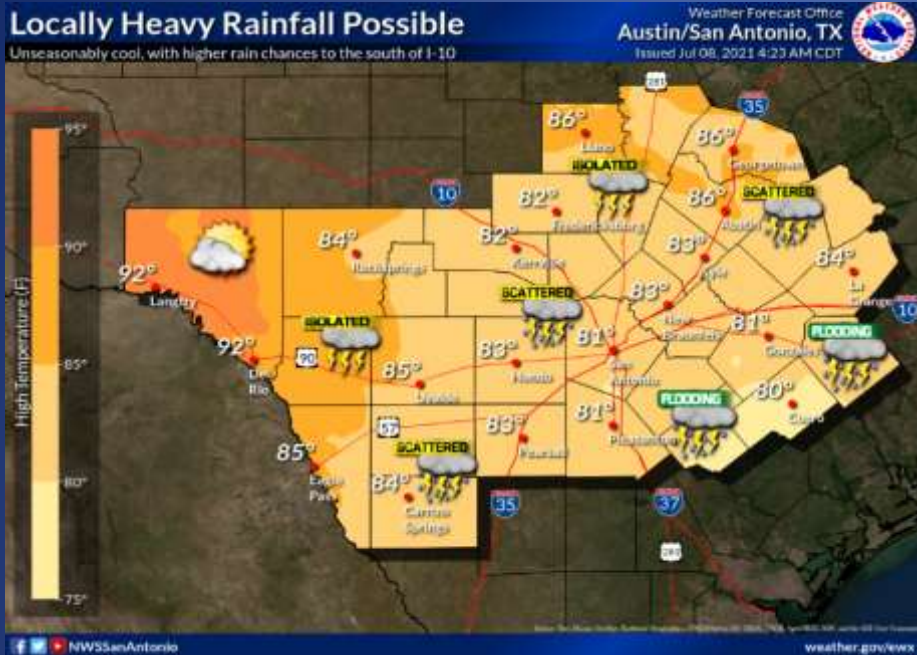

Hazardous Weather

A surface trough to the north and a seabreeze boundary to the south will help produce isolated afternoon thunderstorms today. Severe weather is not expected, but brief heavy rain and gusty winds may accompany a storm or two. Most locations will likely remain rain-free. Otherwise it will be seasonably warm with high temperatures ranging from the upper 80s to middle 90s.

Hazardous Weather

Scattered to numerous showers and storms will be possible again today, especially south of a Uvalde to San Antonio to La Grange line. Locally heavy rain is possible which could lead to flash flooding. Further north and west, isolated to scattered showers and storms are possible through this afternoon and evening.

Thunderstorms will be expected, supported by an inflow of moisture from the Gulf of Mexico. Southwest parts of our area remain in a Slight Risk of Excessive Rainfall, according to the Weather Prediction Center. Flash flooding will be possible. Highs will be in the upper 80s to low 90s. Winds will be southerly at 5 to 10 MPH.

Hazardous Weather

Numerous showers and scattered thunderstorms are expected again across south Texas today. Locally heavy rainfall will be possible, especially over the Coastal Bend and Victoria Crossroads. Highs will be in the lower to mid 80s. Showers and thunderstorms are expected to decrease in coverage during the late afternoon.

Cloudy with widespread showers and scattered thunderstorms today. Some of the rainfall will be heavy at times. A Flash Flood Watch remains in effect for today. Mariners can expect moderate south winds and moderate seas.
